“I did not expect to come away from an Assessment Institute feeling inspired and invigorated as an Art teacher, but I find both of these to be true. I have a whole new level of understanding of not only assessment, but its valuable connection to curriculum, delivery, and student learning. Thank you!”

“My thinking has changed about assessment from that of fear to that of assurance...”

(AAI 2006 participant)

“ One of the challenges for me as a new teacher is to try to balance all of the things I need to do in my classroom. This institute has gone a long way to helping me solve one of the big questions on my mind— assessment. ”

Why attend the New England Arts Assessment Institute?

An Institute designed by teachers

We practice what we preach. We've made changes to this year's institute design based on feedback.

We've added more hands-on learning, adjusted class times, and have more time for you to talk in small groups.

There are large group and small group sessions designed to meet your level of assessment literacy.

Participate in discipline-specific group discussions in the performing or visual arts.

You can self-determine what you need to learn.

Full Registration includes everything!

- All meals (including vegetarian options) start on Tuesday with lunch. Thursday evening enjoy a BBQ dinner with cash bar.
- Air-conditioned classroom and computer labs.
- All registration and conference materials including a CD of arts assessment resources.

Time to learn... time to reflect... time to share...

Arts educators often feel isolated with little time to share ideas with like-minded colleagues.

At NEAAI you will have time to connect with arts educators from around the country who want to share ideas and learn from each other. One morning you might sit next to someone learning about arts assessment for the first time. At lunch you might share a table with teachers who recently pushed forward with arts assessment in a way that aligns with your beliefs. In between you might have a cup of coffee with Institute faculty who are experts in the field and eager to help you.

3-graduate credit option

Optional graduate credit is offered through the Plymouth State University College of Graduate Studies.

Graduate credit fees include working one-on-one with an instructor who has assessment expertise in your art form. This is a great way to work on classroom/district assessments with a mentor.

Add 3 graduate credits for $ 700 plus registration fee.
